

UIC JOHN MARSHALL LAW SCHOOL

Nondiscrimination Policy

The commitment of UIC John Marshall Law School to the most fundamental principles of academic freedom, equality of opportunity, and human dignity requires that decisions involving students and employees be based on individual merit and be free from invidious discrimination in all its forms.

It is the policy of the Law School not to engage in discrimination or harassment against any person because of race, color, religion, sex, national origin, citizenship status, ancestry, age, order of protection status, genetic information, marital status, disability, sexual orientation, gender (including gender identity and gender expression), unfavorable discharge from the military, or status as a protected veteran. The Law School will comply with all federal and state nondiscrimination, equal opportunity, and affirmative action laws, orders, and regulations. This nondiscrimination policy applies to admissions, employment, and access to and treatment in the Law School's programs and activities.

University complaint and grievance procedures provide employees and students with the means to resolve complaints that allege a violation of this policy. Inquiries or complaints may be addressed to the Office for Access and Equity, the UIC office charged with reviewing and addressing complaints of harassment and discrimination.

Administrative policy revised August 16, 2019.
